FOR THE PEOPLE

Dear Neighbors,

This year has been challenging for all of us.

From grocery workers keeping our stores stocked to nurses battling the virus, every member of our community has come together to face the coronavirus pandemic.

While delivering protective equipment to frontline workers and the most vulnerable residents in our community, I've witnessed firsthand the grit of California's working people.

After serving as a labor leader for many years to secure better wages for nurses, janitors, social workers, and the labor community at large, I understand the stakes for our working families.

That is why I'm fighting in the State Assembly for more affordable housing and healthcare for all, higher wages for workers, and equal pay for equal work. Also, I'm focused on ensuring the wealthy pay their fair share of taxes, investing in the middle class, and making our criminal justice system work for everyone, not just the well-connected.

I'll keep fighting for them, for you, and for all of us.

If we continue working together and protecting one another by wearing masks, I know our community will come out of this pandemic stronger than ever before.

Sincerely,

Reggie
